AGENDA

MOVING FORWARD WITH ASSIGNMENT 3

- We discussed how best to tackle the division of the workload that's distinct from how we did so in assignment two, where it fell on one person to do a section on their own.
- Since it's more collaborative, we decided to use Kanban to divide the work up and allocate portions of each section for us to do.
- We discussed the timeframe of the assessment, where we've decided to write down what we do per week to satisfy this requirement of the assignment.

ON THE SUBJECT OF THE PROTOTYPE

- We discussed the details of the assignment and refining what we want in this prototype, which is achievable for us in the time that we have, whilst also thinking about what work we could do beyond this course. We settled on just doing a prototype of the UI.
- Discussing the semantics of how we could translate the features into the prototype, and consequently picking the features that are most important.
- Tom bringing up a VLA article where they outlined what went wrong with an app they tried to make, which was spoken about in the "Landscape" section of the overview.
